

ABSTRACT

A system comprising a CPU, a memory coupled to the CPU and used as storage for programs executable by the CPU, and a system management processor coupled to the CPU that selectively establishes hardware-based remote console sessions and software-based remote console sessions.